LONDON, Aug. 27.

They write from France, that the Breſt Squadron has been compleatly rigged and mann'd this Fortnight; and that it only waits for Orders from Court to ſail out of the Road: But 'tis believ'd they will not venture it to ſtir much further than it did the laſt Year.

From Madrid we learn, that the King of Spain has appointed the Marquis Scotti to be Governor of his Son the Infante Don Lewis, who is about 8 Years of Age, and is nominated by the Pope to the RICH Archbiſhoprick of Toledo.

We hear that the Right Hon. the Earl of Peterborough, General of the Marines, has reſigned his Commiſſion, and is to have a Penſion.

On Monday next ſeveral Recruits in the Savoy are to be put on Ship-board, in order to reinforce His Majeſty's Garriſons at Gibraltar and Port-Mahon.

Sept. 6. We have received a particular Account of the Death of Ferdinand-Albert, Duke of Brunſwick-Wolfenbuttel, who ſucceeded to that Dutchy about ſix Months ago, by the Death of his Father-in-Law, the late Duke, viz. That he was ſeized on the 3d Inſt. N. S. as he ſat at Supper, at his Pleaſure-Houſe at Salzdahl, with a violent Fit of the Cholick, which carried him off a few Hours after, to the great Regret of his Subjects. He was born Prince of Beveren, another Branch of the ancient and illuſtrious Houſe of Brunſwick; and married Princeſs Amelia, Daughter to the late Duke of Brunſwick-Wolfenbuttel, and Siſter to the preſent Empreſs of Germany. He has left ſeveral Children; The eldeſt Prince, who ſucceeds to his Dominions, married the Princeſs Royal of Pruſſia; and was with Prince Eugene on the Rhine when his Father died: The eldeſt Princeſs is Conſort to the Princeſs Royal of Pruſſia. He was ſecond General of the Empire, had the Command of the Imperial Army in the Abſence of Prince Eugene, was in the 56th Year of his Age, and eſteemed a Prince of great Bravery and Conduct. His

His Majesty is going into Mourning at Hanover on this Occasion, as will the Court here for a Fortnight.

On Monday last died at his Seat at Boynton in Yorkshire, after a long Illness, the Right Hon. Sir William Strickland, Bart. Representative in Parliament, for the Borough of Scarborough, and one of His Majesty's most Hon. Privy Council.

Extract of a Letter from Lisbon, dated Aug. 30.

The Military Preparations here and in Spain, are carried on with great Vigor; tho it is the general Opinion, that the Differences between the two Courts, will be accommodated before next Spring.

One of the Bashaws in Barbary having set himself up for Emperor, and having Possession of Sallee, it is fear'd unless the usual Presents from Great-Britain to a new Emperor be made him, the Cruizers will pay no Regard to the British Navigation. Two of their Cruizers are at Sea: And by the lateſt Accounts, three more are ready to put to Sea; Upon which account Sir John Norris has ordered two Men of War for the Sallee Station; and if they find the Moors have broke with us, they will be followed by two more.

Letters from the Hague advise, That the Affair of the Armistice is entirely dropt; and that at present the sole Aim seems to be to bring about the holding of a Congress in the Winter.

'Twas observed in the last Conference which Mons. Fenelon had with the States Deputies, that his Excellency's Terms were much softer and more polite than usual; whence the Emperor's Partizans would have it, that the near Approach of Prince Eugene to the Banks of the Rhine, has already inspired the French with better Manners, and that he will give them A LESSON before he has done with them, that shall at length raise their Reputation for Civility, to as high a Pitch as ever; a Reputation which has been declining some Years, in the Opinion of most Courts of Europe.

The last Advices from Vienna import, That the Emperor had just received a Letter from the Elector of Bavaria, in which his Highness assures him of the most inviolable Fidelity and Attachment.

The Treaty negotiating between this Court and that of Sweden, is said to be a Treaty of Subsidy, and will be concluded in Time to be laid before the Parliament at the first Opening of the Session.

It is now said the Princess of Saxe-Gotha, the intended Spouse of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who is speedily expected here, will take up her Residence at Somerset-House, for a short Time; necessary Preparations being already making for her Reception.

Modena, Aug. 23. The Defence of Mirandola is really extraordinary. The Besiegers having reinforced their Batteries with five great Pieces of Cannon, some of the Besieged's Guns were thereby dismounted; but they were so well remounted by the Vigilance of the Commandant, that they continue to fire with great Vigour. A Deserter from the Place has discovered a Mine to the Besiegers, who, knowing that there are many more, are afraid to make the intended Attack. The Besieged apprehend the Reduction of that Place unavoidable. 'Tis plain it cannot hold out much longer; and 'tis to be feared, that if an honourable Capitulation be not granted, there will be a fatal slaughter.

Mantua, Aug. 26. They write from Mirandola, that, in the last Attack, out of Eight Hundred Spaniards, there escaped but six; and that the Garrison in another Salley some Days ago, so maul'd the Spaniards, that the Duke de Montemar was obliged to make the Horse serve on foot. They have demanded 15 Companies of Grenadiers from the French, but have been refused.

Milan, August 17. The Piedmontese Troops on this side the Oglio, began their March yesterday to rejoin those of France, who were to march together towards the Territory of Verona, and hinder the Imperialists re-entering Italy.

Bologna, Aug. 27. The Garrison of Mirandola holds out bravely, but have been obliged to abandon their Outworks and retire into the Castle, which they resolved to defend to the last Extremity.

Vienna, Aug. 31. Count Konigseg is on the point of departing for Italy, to resume his Command of the Imperial Army, his Imperial Majesty having furnished him with the necessary Supplies of Money and Provisions for that Purpose. A Plan is drawn for keeping on foot 200,000 Men in Croatia, Dalmatia, Esclavonia, Transylvania and Temeswaer, without the least Expence to the Publick.

Upper-Rhine, Sept. 7. The French Army remains incamped between Worms and Ostoffen, and the Imperialists in the same Quarters as per last Account; but as a Bridge is sent to Gerinsheim, 'tis presumed Prince Eugene will not be long e'er he pass the Rhine.

London, Sept. 1. They write a very material Piece of News from Hamburg, if it be true; to wit, that by Virtue of the new Alliance in Treaty for the Emperor, the King of Great-Britain will, besides the Bavarian Troops, take some Russians also into his Pay; that his Britannick Majesty will join them with 20,000 of his Hanoverian Troops, and that King Augustus will furnish 20,000 Saxons.

By the French Mail we have Advices from the Rhine of the 27th of Aug. which say the Baggage was that Day sent from the Camp at Oppenheim, to the Camp mark'd out in the Plain of Spiers; and that the Army was to march the 28th, to take Possession of that Camp. The French had laid two new Bridges over the Rhine at Philipsburg, to pass that River, in case Prince Eugene should send any

Detachment

Detachment to reinforce the Body of Imperial Troops in the Tyroleze, as has been reported. Prince Eugene's Army is divided into three Parts: The Emperor's Troops are marched towards Mentz; thoſe of the Circles continue in the Camp at Bruſchal; and the Auxiliary Troops conſiſting of Saxons and Muſcovites, are at Heidelberg, whither Prince Eugene went the 27th, on purpoſe to ſee them.

Sept. 2. By Letters from Frankfort, of the 1ſt of Sept. we are told, that when Prince Eugene, accompanied by moſt of the principal Officers, went to ſee the Ruſſian Camp, he found the Troops in Order of Battle upon a Line. They fir'd three Volleys of their Cannon, their Mortars, and their ſmall Shot: Theſe three Motions of their Fire were executed with the utmoſt Juſtneſs and Regularity. The Soldiers afterward perform'd divers Exerciſes with the ſame Dexterity.

A Letter from Fribourg takes Notice of ſix French Officers of Diſtinction being ſent in thither Priſoners by the Germans, among them the famous Partiſan la Croix, who is eſteem'd one of the braveſt and politeſt Men of the Age; but that his Confinement ſits ſo heavy upon his Spirits, as its believed will endanger his Life.

Briſtol, Aug. 30. During the laſt great Dearth of Corn, when foreign Ships ſupply'd this Port with that Commodity, ſuch Numbers of large Rats left thoſe Veſſels after their being unladed, that now they are become very numerous and troubleſome, both to the Houſes in this City, and the Neighbouring Farms towards the River: And a Gentleman has made an Experiment of the following Receipt in his Store-Houſes, as the only Remedy for killing theſe Vermin.

Take one Ounce of Cantharides, and one Ounce of Glaſs Antimony, both finely powder'd, and mix it up with half a Pound of Currants, and one Pint of Oat-Meal; put it in ſmall Quantities where you pleaſe; leaving ſome Water near it.

Hague, Sept. 6. N. S. Letters from Heidelberg, of the 30th paſt, adviſe, Prince Eugene arrived there the 27th, and fixed his Head Quarters at that Place. The Imperial Troops which lay at Bruſchal, were almoſt all come into the Camp marked out for them near Heidleberg; and the Duke of Arenberg, with Part of the Troops of the Circles, had taken Poſſeſſion of the Camp of Bruſchal. In the mean time the main Body of the French Army, commanded by the Marquis de Coigny, had decamped between Oppenheim and Worms; and the Count de Belleiſle lay with the Body of Troops he commands between two and three Leagues off Oppenheim.

London, Sept. 4. They write from Heidleberg, of the 3d Inſt. that the Imperial Army, which had lain ſome Days near that Place, broke up and marched off that Morning, but they knew not which Way.

Dublin, Sept. 2. We have received the following Account of the Execution of a Criminal, at Cavan, the laſt Aſſizes, which, by Reaſon of its Singularity, we think fit to communicate to the Publick.

One Makkin, from the County of Armagh, being convicted and condemned for Cow-ſtealing, at Cavan, gave publick Notice, the Day before his Execution, that it would be worth People's while to come ten Miles to ſee him at the Gallows, and to hear what he had to ſay; which occaſioned a vaſt Reſort of People.

Upon his mounting the Ladder, he turned to each Hand, and viewing the Gallows, ſaid, Hah! Am I come to you at laſt? And then turning to the People, Pray Gentlemen, do not crowd one another, the fartheſt off ſhall hear me as plain as the neareſt. Then he began, Gentlemen I have been guilty of every Crime except that of Murder; Here he was interrupted by a Perſon from the Crowd; Pray Mr. Makkin, do you know any thing of my grey Mare? Suppoſe I did, ſays he, Will you pay for one Maſs for my Soul? I will, by G---, ſays the Fellow, for ſeven. Promiſe me again, ſaid Makkin, which the other did, by repeating the ſame Words. Why then, ſaid he, laughing, I know nothing at all of your Mare. Another advances, Pray Mr. Makkin, do you know any thing of my Heifer? Yes, ſays he. Pray what is become of her? I took her to Middleton, ſaid Makkin, I knock'd her in the Head, I flea'd her, I ſold the Skin, the Beef was very good, I ſold it at a good Rate, and I put the Money in my Pocket. After this he proceeded; Gentlemen, as little as you think, I ſtole half a Dozen Weathers near this Town, and drove them thro' the midſt of it. One from the Crowd asked him, whether any of the Biſhop of Killmore's Sheep was among them. Yes ſays he, and they were the beſt Mutton I ever handled. Then he turned to the People; Pray Gentlemen, are any of you acquainted with that pretty Gentleman that overſees the Building of our new Jail? One among them anſwered, You mean Mr. Leppington, I ſuppoſe. No, no, a prettier Fellow than he. Mr. Boyle: Ay, ay, Mr. Boyle: Pray preſent my humble Service to him, and tell him, I beg he will give me this Night's Lodging, it is the laſt I ſhall trouble him for: Then turning to the Sheriff, he ſaid, Mr. Sheriff, will you give me leave to ſtep down and p---. No, Sir, ſaid he, I cannot grant you that Favour. Well, ſaid Makkin, I am ſure of going to Heaven, for the Prieſt gave me Abſolution Yeſterday. Upon which he was turned off, bidding the Sheriff farewell.

The Criminal's Mother, above ſeventy Years old, was preſent when her Son was cut down; ſhe went to Dr. Sheridan's Houſe, to beg towards a winding ſheet for her Son. Some Perſons there contributing among them as much as was proper on the Occaſion, it was delivered to the old Woman by a young Gentleman. She was ſo elevated at her Succeſs, that, after giving her Thanks and Bleſſing, ſhe ſaid, My poor Jonney always had good Luck.
